

APPLICATIONS FOR ENROLLMENT NOW OPEN FOR

The Culture of the Athenian Democracy

CORE 200, Spring 2016, Thursdays 2-4 PM, 2 credits

Instructors:

USC President C. L. Max Nikias and Professor Thomas Habinek

Designed to ease tensions between the rich and the poor, Athenian democracy quickly grew to unprecedented strength and influence throughout the ancient world. This course will explore the timeless wisdom of this civilization, whose world still echoes in almost every facet of our society. We will learn not only from their successes but also from their failures by extracting inspiring insights, leadership lessons, and cautionary tales.

Though the materials are drawn from the era of Classical Greece, the course is intended for students of all academic backgrounds and disciplines. Enrollment is limited to 40 students and is open only to USC freshmen and sophomores.

To apply, students should complete the application form available online at:
<http://undergrad.usc.edu/athenian-democracy/>

Applications submitted by Nov. 6, 2015 will be considered for priority registration.

For additional information, contact Professor Habinek at habinek@usc.edu.